

I do not support the proposed new changes to the no call list. It is working just fine and needs to be left alone!